

Non refundable deposit policy

At Don't Cry Tattoo Co., we require a non-refundable deposit to secure your tattoo appointment. This policy is in place to protect the time and work that our artists dedicate to your custom tattoo and to ensure a respectful commitment from both sides.

Why We Require a Deposit

Once we go over the details of your tattoo, agree on the final design, set a price, and lock in your date, your artist begins preparing specifically for your session. This includes:

- Reserving a time slot that could have gone to another client
- Spending hours creating a custom design tailored just for you
- Planning materials, setup, and scheduling for that specific day

How Much Is the Deposit?

The standard deposit amount is $100–$300, depending on the size and complexity of your tattoo. The deposit will go toward the final cost of your tattoo.

When a Deposit Is Forfeited

Your deposit will be forfeited (non-refundable) if:

- You cancel your appointment after design work has started
- You reschedule with less than 72 hours' notice
- You fail to show up to your appointment (no-call/no-show)
- You make major changes to your concept after the design has already been drawn, requiring the artist to start over
- You are more than 15 minutes late without prior notice
- Your deposit is good to reschedule but not to be refunded.

Why Cancellations Affect Us

When you cancel after we've already put time into your tattoo, it means:

- Time and effort have been lost that could have gone to another client
- Your artist loses income from that booking
- Other clients waiting for availability miss the opportunity

We understand that life happens, and we try to be as fair as possible. In certain cases, we may allow one reschedule if proper notice is given (at least 72 hours in advance), and the new appointment is within 30 days. However, this is at the artist's discretion.
